Unit 2 Work and play

1 Modern careers

1 Reading and writing

a Read the text.

Family legends

All families have their stories. Grandparents tell their grandchildren how they lived, what they did, and what they remember about their ancestors. Besides being interesting, these stories give us insight into the customs of the past.

My father told me stories about his childhood. He grew up on a farm in the Rocky Mountains. In the winter it snowed so much that he and his brothers often went to school on a gigantic farm horse. His ancestors came from the state of Missouri and the county they lived in was named for them, Miller County. His great-grandfather made friends with the local Native Americans and the famous pioneer Daniel Boone was their neighbour. He even remembered that one ancestor was the first white child born in the area.

Later, when I was an adult, I began investigating his family and I found out many of the stories he told me were a little bit exaggerated. For example, I found out he lived part of his life in the mountains so the story about riding a horse to school could be true, but many of the other stories were either untraceable or embroidered. I couldn't find out anything about his great-grandfather and the Native Americans, but I was able to discover that Daniel Boone didn't live in the area. However, it is possible one of his ancestors was the first white child born there and I did find an interesting ancestor. Pinckney Story Miller, my father's great-grandfather's brother, lost his hunting dog one day when he was a child. Young Pinckney went off looking for it. He never found the hunting dog, but he did find a baby bear that he tied up and brought home with him to the surprise of his parents.

b Answer the questions.

- 1 Where did the writer's father say he grew up?
- 2 How did he get to school?
- 3 What other stories did he tell about his ancestors?
- 4 Which family legends might be true?
- 5 Which ones were not true?
- 6 Who was Pinckney Story Miller?
- 7 What happened to him?

1. On a farm in the Rocky Mountains.
2. On a gigantic farm horse.
3. His great-grandfather made friends with Indians, Daniel Boone was their neighbour, and an ancestor was the first white child born in the area.
4. Riding the horse, the first white child born in the area.
5. Great-grandfather making friends with Indians, Daniel Boone didn't live in the area.
6. His father's great-grandfather's brother.
7. He brought home a baby bear.

c Does your family have any legends or stories about your ancestors? Write a paragraph about them.

(Students write personal information).

- d Make a timeline about your family like the one on page 15 of your Student's Book. Label it with important events in your family's history (the years people were born, when they graduated, etc.).

((Students write personal information)).

- e Write a short biography of a member of your family using the timeline for ideas. Include a paragraph about what you think will happen to this person in the future.

((Students write personal information)).

2 Do you study enough?

1 Word builder: participle adjectives

a Match the sentences with the pictures.

- 1 He's frightened of spiders. A 2 He's excited about going to the circus. C

- 3 He finds physics boring. B
 4 They think dinosaurs are interesting. D b Look at exercise 1a. Notice how different prepositions are used after participle adjectives. Make correct sentences from the table.

My teacher's		interested		tai kwon do.
I'm		bored		mice.
Cats are	not	amused	in	arguing in public.
English people are		embarrassed	by	tea.
People in my country are		frightened	about	snakes.
		excited	of	soccer.

Cats are interested in mice.

I'm embarrassed by arguing in public.

My teacher's not amused by soccer.

English people are not excited with Tai kwon do.

People in my country are frightened of snakes.

- c Complete the sentences with an appropriate participle adjective.
There is sometimes more than one possible answer.

Most people find snakes frightening.

- 1 Many people are frightened of mice.
- 2 A lot of young men are interested in football.
- 3 Many women are bored by football.
- 4 TV documentaries can be very interesting.
- 5 Learning English is usually interesting.
- 6 The book wasn't very exciting.

Grammar builder: talking about the future

We usually use the simple present tense when we use verbs that do not describe actions. These verbs describe states, feelings, senses, thoughts and appearances.

- I am a student at London University.
- She felt happy after taking the exam.
- He looks very smart in his new suit.
- Fahad thinks Riyadh is a wonderful city.
- This food smells and tastes great.
- She likes fruit and vegetables.

2 Grammar

- a Complete these sentences using a verb from the box below.

- Abdullah is older than Farid. Farid is older than Yakubu. Abdullah is the oldest of all of them.
- Yakubu is younger than Farid. Farid is younger than Abdullah. Yakubu is the youngest of all of them.

3 Reading

Put the conversation in the correct order, A–G.

1 Do you think so?

E

2 I don't know what to do on my holiday.

A

3 Why don't you go skydiving?

B

4 I'm sure, and hang gliding is more expensive, too.

F

5 That's true. Hang gliding is one of the most expensive sports I know.

G

6 Isn't skydiving dangerous?

C

7 Well, yes, but you enjoy hang gliding and that's more dangerous.

D

Unit 3 Towards the future

1 Energy sources

1 Word builder: forms of energy

a Match the words to make phrases connected with energy and sources of power.

- | | | |
|---------------|---|--------------|
| 1 fossil | → | a) pollution |
| 2 energy | → | b) power |
| 3 air / water | → | c) waves |
| 4 nuclear | → | d) turbine |
| 5 ocean | → | e) sources |
| 6 steam | → | f) fuels |

b Complete the sentences with a phrase from exercise 1a.

Steam turbines produce electricity as a result of nuclear fission.

- Oil and coal are both fossil fuels.
- Wind and solar power are both renewable energy sources.
- Oil and coal burning produce air / water pollution.
- Nuclear power produces radioactive waste, which is dangerous.
- Hydro-electric power can come from ocean waves.

c Circle the odd word and explain why it doesn't fit.

river / sea / ocean / swim

swim is a verb – the others are all forms of water

1 mountain / hill / high / slope high is an adjective – the others are all nouns.

2 spring / holiday / summer / autumn holiday – the others are seasons.

3 windy / tree / sunny / cloudy tree – the others are all weather.

4 oil / windmill / gas / coal windmill – the others are all fossil fuels.

5 warm / cold / cloud / hot cloud – the others are all temperatures and adjectives.

2 Reading

a What do you think were the traditional uses of wind power?

grinding grain

moving ships

pumping water

producing electricity

b Read the text below carefully. Which questions a–d should start paragraph 1–4?

a) What are the problems of wind power?

c) What are the advantages of wind power?

b) When was wind power first used?

d) Why did we stop using wind power?

c Now check your answers to exercise 2a.

(1) b Wind power has been used all over the world for a very long time. Moving ships, grinding grain and pumping water were the traditional uses. There is evidence that wind power was used to pump water in China many centuries ago and to propel boats along the River Nile as early as 7,000 years ago! In the 19th century, millions of windmills were used by farmers to pump water in the American West.

(2) d Electrical grid power was developed and extended to rural areas. People came to depend on that form of power and forgot about traditional ways. These days we are looking at these methods again because they are good for the environment.

(3) c Wind power is free, renewable and non-polluting. The mechanical power of the past can now be converted to electricity by a generator to power homes, businesses and so on.

(4) a The cost. The technology requires a much higher investment than fossil-fueled generators. However, wind power is easy to operate and there is no fuel to buy. The true cost is not very much and the cost to the environment is a very important consideration.

d Answer the questions.

1 When was wind power first used? 7,000 years ago.

2 Where was it used? China, Egypt.

3 What are the advantages of wind power? free, renewable and non-polluting.

4 Why did we stop using wind power? people forgot about traditional ways.

2 Predicting the future

Grammar builder: will and going to for predictions will / won't

Use:

To predict future events in a speculative way. It is often preceded by I think ...

Form:

will / won't

subject + will / will (not) / won't + infinitive

(I think) he'll win the competition.

going to

Use:

To predict more immediate future events with evidence in the present.

Form:

subject + to be + going to + infinitive

He's going to score a goal. (He has the ball and is kicking it towards the goal.)

It's going to rain. (I can see the clouds.)

1 Grammar

a Make a sentence about each of the pictures using going to and the words in brackets.

(he / fall)

He's going to fall.

2 (it / rain)

It's going to rain.

4 (he / score a goal)

He's going to score a goal.

1 (she / do an exam)

She's going to do an exam.

3 (she / cry)

She's going to cry.

5 (we / be late)

We're going to be late.

b Circle the correct future form.

Take your umbrella. I think it will is going to rain.

- 1 I'm sure he will is going to be able to help us.
- 2 Fossil fuels won't aren't going to be used in 50 years.
- 3 John will is going to have to take the bus today.
- 4 I think the environment will is going to improve in the next ten years.
- 5 Stop at that petrol station. We will are going to run out of petrol.

c Complete the conversation.

A: What do you think will happen to the environment in 20 years?

B: I'm not sure.

A: Well, what kind of energy sources do you think we'll be using?

B: (1) I think we'll be using the power of wind and energy from the sun.

A: Why?

B: (2) Because it's available and cheap.

A: And what kind of transport?

B: (3) We'll use the same transport we have today.

A: Where do you think you'll go on holiday in the future?

B: (4) Canada.

A: That sounds like fun. What will you do there?

B: (5) View landscape.

2 Reading

Read the text and tick (✓) the sentences T (true) or F (false).

The metros and trains into central London, Tokyo and New York still carry millions of commuters. But things are changing. About 20% of the workforce now works from home part of the time, and this trend is continuing in the 21st century with the growth of home technology like computers and fast internet connections. We'll be able to have conferences with colleagues from other countries without leaving our homes. We'll still get dressed for work though, as video links will be increasingly common. Some people will miss the conversation around the water cooler and for them, we'll see the rise of shared office space, where they can rent a desk and meet colleagues. House prices will fall in the cities as people will be able to live in the country and continue working. For employers, it will mean a reduction in costs like office space, and for workers it will mean greater flexibility and reduction in costs like childcare, travel and clothing. It's a win-win situation!

Glossary

to commute: to travel a long distance between work and home (noun / person: a commuter) a colleague: someone you work with the workforce: working people rise: opposite of fall

increase: to become greater (in size, quantity or intensity)

In the future, we'll work from home more.

T ☒ F ☐

1 Some people will share offices with others.

T ☒ F ☐

2 The number of people working from home will fall.

T ☐ F ☒

3 Employers will save money.

T ☒ F ☐

4 Workers will need to live in city centres.

T ☐ F ☒

5 People will continue dressing for work.

T ☒ F ☐

6 More people will probably use the metro system.

3 What if ...?

Grammar builder: the first conditional

Use:

To express cause (or condition) and effect.

Form:

if + present simple + will / won't

If you eat too much, you'll gain weight.

Will is not usual in the condition clause.

If you will eat too much, you'll gain weight. ✗

The clauses can be reversed.

You'll gain weight (result) if you eat too much (condition).

If the result clause is first, a comma is not necessary.

1 Grammar

a Match the sentence beginnings on the left with the endings on right.

- | | |

- 5 If I have enough time, I'll travel to Europe. _____.

c Read the text about what will happen in the future with underwater exploration and answer the questions.

Did you know there are vast areas of the oceans that are undiscovered? In fact, only ten per cent of it has been mapped. People know nothing about what really exists down there. But now, new technology means that it is possible to send vehicles with cameras down to the bottom of the oceans. You can control them from a ship on the surface of the water. This makes underwater exploration much less dangerous.

These vehicles can explore underwater mountain ranges and hydrothermal vents, which are similar to underwater volcanoes. They have discovered plants and minerals that only grow in the deep sea, which could be used for new anti-cancer drugs. Excitingly, they have also found minerals that may be an energy source twice as large as all the global reserves of coal, oil and natural gas combined.

- | | T | F |
|---|-------------------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| 1 There is nothing to be discovered in the oceans. | <input type="checkbox"/> | <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> |
| 2 You can now send unmanned vehicles to the bottom of the very deep oceans. | <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> |

Unit 4 A place to live

1 The Farasan Islands – a paradise

1 Word builder: cities

- a Find ten words in the word puzzle. Use the pictures to help you. → ↓ ↗ ↘

- b Complete the paragraph with the words from exercise 1a.

I live in a great city. There are lots of tall (1) buildings and some (2) skyscrapers, too. My house is in the city centre, across the street from the public (3) library. There's a little (4) café on the corner where I have coffee in the morning. I like living in the centre, but there are some disadvantages. The (5) smog is pretty bad some days and there are (6) crowds of (7) people on the streets in the morning. There are lots of advantages, though. There's a lot of (8) entertainment all week – restaurants and shopping centres, and the apartments are a (9) bargain. The rent is really cheap. The worst thing, I suppose, is the (10) rubbish. People don't care and throw it everywhere.

2 Writing

- a You are going to write a paragraph describing your city. To organize your thoughts, complete this table. Think about transport, city services, entertainment, the people and the buildings.

	Advantages	Disadvantages
Transport	City services	Transport
City services	Entertainment	People
Entertainment	Buildings
People
Buildings

- b Write your paragraph. Where do you live? What are the advantages and disadvantages of living there?

I live in a big city. There are a lot of advantages in my city. The city services are available. There is a lot of entertainment like Malls shopping centers and restaurants. There are a lot of beautiful buildings and views. But, there are some disadvantages. The streets are crowded with cars. Some people throw rubbish everywhere.

3 Reading and writing

- a Three immigrants living in the USA talk about the main differences between their language and English. Match the texts with the people.

- Diego is a doctor from Mexico. C
- Hans is a student from Germany. B
- Kiyoshi is a Japanese teacher. A

Our languages are completely different. We use a different alphabet. Some new words are the same, like "Internet" and "computer" but most of the time I can't guess anything. It's very hard for me, but I love English.

A

There are a lot of similarities. We also have phrasal verbs like "clean up" and the pronunciation is not so different. Some of the grammar seems the same, but means different things. "I will" means "I want" in my language. These things can be quite confusing. Also, all nouns have capital letters in my language, but not in English!

B

Many of the long words are written the same. That makes reading a medical textbook very easy. But it's not so easy to understand people at conferences. They speak so fast and the pronunciation is very different. English spelling is so strange! In my language you spell it like you say it.

C

- b Answer the questions.

- Who finds English the most difficult?
Kiyoshi
- Who finds English pronunciation the easiest?
Hans
- Who finds reading English the easiest?
Diego

- c What do you find difficult about English?

I can't understand native speakers because they speak so fast. The use of tenses in grammar sometimes is confused.

2 Cultural differences

Grammar builder: present perfect vs past simple

Use:

Present perfect: to talk about activities that began in the past and continue now.

I've lived in Dammam for six months. (I still live there.)

Present perfect: to talk about events that happened in the past when the time is not important.

I've been to Abha. Have you been to Jubail? Yes, I have. / No, I haven't.

Form:

subject

here for six months.

Use:

Past simple: when dates and details are given, use the past simple.

I went to Abha last summer

1 Grammar

Circle the correct form: past simple or present perfect.

I've been / I went to Cairo on holiday last year.

1 He's lived / He lived in Boston for four years and then he went back to Buenos Aires.

2 John has lived / lived in Madrid for six months. He loves it there!

3 Did you visit / Have you visited Henry when you were in New York?

4 I've studied / I studied English since I was ten and it's still not easy for me.

5 When I was a child, I've spent / I spent a year in Jeddah. It was amazing.

Grammar builder: time expressions

For, since, yet, and already are all used with the present perfect.

For is used with a period of time.

I've lived here for six months.

Since is used to indicate a point at which the period began.

I've lived here since January.

Yet and already mean "before now." Use already between the auxiliary and past participle of the verb in affirmative sentences and yet at the end of negative sentences. You can use either one in questions, but already is used to state that something has happened before expected.

I've already finished dinner.

I haven't finished dinner yet.

Have you already eaten? I wanted to invite you out to dinner.

Have you eaten yet?

Ago is used with the past simple tense and it is used to refer to a time in the past.

I met him six years ago.

I had dinner an hour ago.

2 Grammar

a Complete the sentences with for or since.

I've been here for six years.

- 1 I haven't seen you since my graduation. 3 You haven't called me for two weeks.
2 You haven't called me since last weekend. 4 He has studied French for six months.

b Write the sentences in the correct order.

done / Has / he / his / homework / yet / ? Has he done his homework yet?

- 1 yet / me / Sami / hasn't / called / . Sami hasn't called me yet.
2 already / been / Have / park / the / to / you / ? Have you been to the park already?
3 to / school / Amani / has / gone / already / . Amani has already gone to school.
4 begun / Has / meeting / the / yet / ? Has the meeting begun yet?

3 Word builder: past participles

a Write the past participles of these verbs.

- 1 see seen 4 make made
2 sell sold 5 be been 3 take taken 6 get got

b Complete the sentences with one of the past participles from exercise 3a.

We've been to Australia on vacation.

- 1 The Opera House is the most beautiful building I've ever seen.
2 I've taken lots of pictures of it.
3 We've also been to some excellent restaurants in Sydney.
4 We've made a promise to go there again one day.

4 Grammar

Complete the conversation with the correct forms of the verbs in brackets.

A: How long (1) have you studied (study) English?

B: Well, I (2) 've studied (study) here for six months, but I (3) lived (live) in London last year.

A: Really? Where (4) did you live (live) there?

B: In Greenwich. It's a nice area. (5) Have you been (be) to London?

A: Yes, my sister (6) Lived (live) there for two months when she was in college.

3 City versus country

Grammar builder: too and enough; too much / too many

Use:

Enough: to indicate that something is sufficient.

Form:

Enough follows adjectives but goes before nouns:

He isn't tall enough.

I've got enough money.

Use:

Too, too much, too many: to indicate that something is excessive.

Form:

Too goes before adjectives:

He's too tall.

Use too much with uncountable nouns.

I've got too much money.

There's too much pollution.

Use too many with countable nouns.

There are too many cars.

1 Grammar

a Circle the correct words.

My apartment really isn't big (1) enough / ~~too~~. I need to look for a bigger one. There aren't (2) ~~too~~ enough cupboards and there are (3) ~~too much~~ / too many insects, especially mosquitoes. And I don't like the neighbourhood. There is (4) ~~too much~~ / too many traffic and there aren't (5) ~~too~~ / enough shops in the area. I always have to use the car to go shopping. I'm just (6) too / ~~enough~~ tired after work to have to drive to a shop to buy milk.

b Change the sentences so that they mean the same. Use an opposite adjective and not ... enough.

He's too short. He's not tall enough.

1 The air is too polluted. It's not clean enough.

2 She's too sad. She's not happy enough.

3 It's too dark. It's not light enough.

4 He's too tall. He's not short enough.

5 Our house is too small. Our house isn't big enough.

2 Writing

- a Complete the conversation with too or enough and the words in brackets.

A: Do you like your school?

B: Not really. I don't like the classrooms. They're (1) too (small) and (2) too (crowded).

A: What about the hall?

B: It's (3) too (dark) and there aren't (4) enough (chairs).

A: And the sports facilities?

B: They're (5) too (old) and there aren't (6) enough (refreshments) for the players.

- b Do you like your school? What improvements would you make? Write a short paragraph about your school. Think about the classrooms, sports facilities, hall, etc. Are they big enough? Are they attractive enough? How could you change them to make them better?

I like my school but I have some observations. I don't like the chairs in the classroom because they aren't comfortable. The sports facilities are old and aren't enough for the players. I like the hall because it's very wide but there aren't any chairs for the students. The school isn't attractive enough for the students. If the administrators solve the previous problems and interested in increasing the students' activities, it will be a better place.

- c Look at the photo. Write down five adjectives you would use to describe the scene. Now write four sentences to describe the scene. Add a last sentence saying whether you would like to live there and why.

1-Tall

2-Wide

3-clean

4-crowded

5-beautiful

- 1- The scene in the picture is nice.
- 2- There are tall buildings.
- 3- The streets are wide and clean.
- 4- The traffic isn't crowded.
- 5- I would like to live there because it's a beautiful place.

Unit 5 The world of money

1 Saving money

1 Word builder: words with similar meanings

Complete the paragraph with the words in the box.

earn gained lose miss waste won

I need a new job. I don't earn enough money. My boss gives bonuses to workers who never (1) miss work or aren't late, but I have two kids and I can't get to work on time every day. For example, my son Oliver (2) won a prize at his school last week and I had to go and see him get his prize. I also have to go to the doctor every Wednesday morning. I'm on a special diet to (3) lose weight. Unfortunately, I (4) gained three kilos last month and I'm just too fat. Some people say I (5) waste my money when I buy special diet drinks and food, but I think it's worth it.

- b Imagine you are shopping with your friend. You see a pair of shoes you really want but they are 350 SAR. You want to buy them but your friend is better with money and has a few questions. Read and then complete the conversation with your own ideas.

You: Look at these shoes. They are really soft leather. They fit beautifully. Oh, but they are 350 SAR.

Your friend: Well, they are formal shoes. Do you think you will use them much?

You: I think I'll use them in occasions.

Your friend: Well, they do cost 350 SAR. How much money do you have with you?

You: I have 500 SAR. I can pay in cash.

Your friend: OK, so you have enough money now, but can you afford them?

You: That's right. Actually, I need to buy a new coat.

Your friend: So, if you need to buy a new coat, can you still afford them?

You: I can't decide. I liked the shoes.

Your friend: Why don't we look round the other shops to see if you can find them for a better price?

You: It's a good idea. Let's go.

- c Complete the sentences with words from the box.

Dear George,

Here I am in Rome! I'm having a great time and the family I'm staying with is wonderful. They let me use their computer and they encourage me to go out and meet people - I'm taking an Italian class here. The father is very kind - he corrects any mistakes I make in English and helps me understand my homework. The children are usually in bed by 8 pm. I like the kids, but I think they are much freer than at home. They have TVs in their rooms and the parents let them watch all the time! They allow them to eat sweets all the time and don't make them eat good food. When I have children I won't let them behave like these children. They are cute though, which is the most important thing. I hope to come home in the autumn - I'll call you soon to make plans.

Looking forward to seeing you then.

Dear Mona,

I'm having a great time with my family in our new house. I like this house very much. The living-room is comfortable. There are good chairs for sitting and relaxing while watching T.V. There is a good lightening in the room. We put a soft carpet on the floor and a beautiful coffee table on it.

My room is very nice. Its walls are painted in light blue. There is a bed, two bedside tables, a mirror and a wardrobe in the room. They all painted in dark blue. I'll invite you to see the new house as soon as possible.

I'm looking forward to seeing you.

2 Reading and writing

a Look at the photograph. What festival is the text about? Eid al-Adha

b Read the text.

All over the world, in Islamic and non-Islamic countries, Muslims celebrate Eid al-Adha on or around the tenth day of the month of Dhul Hijja. In English, Eid al-Adha means 'Festival of Sacrifice'. It is held to commemorate the Prophet Ibrahim's willingness to sacrifice his son Ismael.

On the first day of Eid al-Adha, people dress in their best clothes before they go to the Mosque or a large open area to pray and listen to a sermon. It is usual in Islamic countries for those who can afford it to sacrifice an animal – a sheep, cow, camel or goat – on this day. Traditionally, one third of the meat is eaten by the family, one third given to friends and other relatives, and one third given to the poor.

Glossary

to sacrifice: to kill an animal for religious reasons to commemorate: to remember an important event

a sermon: a speech about a religious topic

2 Reading

a Read the text quickly and answer the questions:

- 1 Complete the list: Pakistan, India, Nepal, Sri Lanka, Bangladesh
- 2 Are most South Asian dishes very hot and spicy? No
- 3 Is South Asian food the same in all parts of the subcontinent? No

Some like it hot

The South Asian subcontinent – that is, Pakistan, India, Bangladesh, Nepal and Sri Lanka – is famous for its curries. Strangely, though, the word 'curry' has little meaning in the region. It is best translated as 'stew', and covers a whole range of different vegetable and meat dishes.

Another common, but false, belief is that all South Asian curries are very hot and spicy. True, a few of them are – but many South Asian dishes are quite mild.

Each country, and every region, has its own particular religious dietary rules and styles of cooking. The one thing that unites them all, however, is that only the freshest herbs and spices are used.

Almost as appetizing as the main dishes are the accompaniments. There is an incredible range of rice dishes, different types of bread, pickles and chutneys.

The presentation of the meal is as important as the cooking. A well-served meal is a feast of different colours, from the white of the yoghurt to the deep reds and oranges of the spiced meat and the rainbow colours of the vegetables.

And don't eat too much. Remember to leave some room for the desserts. They are perhaps some of the sweetest-tasting desserts in the world!

b Read the text again and circle the best options to summarize the text.

The South Asian subcontinent is isn't made up of six countries.

- 1 Curry isn't a particular South Asian dish.
- 2 South Asians use / don't use fresh spices.
- 3 The 'look' of a meal is as important as / less important than the taste.
- 4 South Asians like to leave room / leave the room to eat dessert.

shoulders	toes	upper back	wrist	hand

Head	Arms	Upper body	Lower body	Legs
Ears Eyes mouth nose	hand elbow fingers wrist	Shoulders upper back	Hips lower back	Shin Knee Toes foot

2 Reading and writing

a Read the text.

Physical activity can help you feel physically fit and give you a positive mental attitude. Regular exercise can assure you a longer, healthier life. If you haven't done much regular exercise in the past, here are a few suggestions on where to start.

- 1 Visit your doctor. It's a good idea to check with your doctor before beginning any new activity, especially if you are over 40, have ever smoked, or if someone in your family has had heart disease, high blood pressure or diabetes.
- 2 Choose the correct activity. Be sure you have fun while you exercise. You will keep doing an activity longer if you are enjoying yourself.
- 3 Start slowly. Don't think you'll be an expert the first time you try a new activity.
- 4 Set clear goals. Be sure you decide on reasonable goals before you begin. You are more likely to stick to an activity if you set goals in small steps. If you want to lose weight, set goals of losing a few kilos at a time.
- 5 Give yourself rewards. When you reach a goal, buy yourself a present.
- 6 Stick with it. If you don't exercise regularly, you won't get fit. You need at least 30 minutes a day to improve.

b Write short answers about the text.

- 1 What benefits can you get from doing exercise? You can feel physically fit and have a positive mental attitude.
- 2 Who should visit the doctor before starting an exercise programme? People over 40, who have smoked, or if someone in their family has had heart disease, high blood pressure or diabetes.
- 3 Why is it important to choose the right activity? People keep doing an activity longer if they are enjoying themselves.
- 4 What kinds of goals should you set yourself? Clear and reasonable goals.
- 5 How long should you exercise every day to get fit? At least 30 minutes a day

- c Do you do regular exercise? If you do, what exercise do you do? Do you follow the programme outlined above? If you don't do regular exercise, do you think you could follow the programme? What activity would you like to do?

(Students write personal information).

2 Dangerous practices

Grammar builder: causatives – have / get something done

Use:

To express services performed for us by somebody else.

Form:

subject +	have / get +	object		+ past participle
I		my
You	have	your	hair	cut at the hairdresser's.
We	get	our

This language can be used in various tenses. To indicate tense, change have and get only.

I'm having / getting my hair cut tomorrow.

I had / got my hair cut yesterday.

1 Grammar

2 Reading and writing

a Read the text and choose the correct answer.

Pelé scored 1,352 / 1,280 goals in his career. 1,280

Edson Arantes do Nascimento, known throughout the world as Pelé, was born in the Brazilian town of Três Corações. When he was playing football with his friends in the streets of his hometown, no one ever imagined he would become a world renowned football player. He dreamed of becoming a professional football player and scoring a goal for his country in a World Cup, but he never expected to be so famous. He began his professional career when he was 15, earning about $60 a month for playing with the Santos football team. The people who discovered him no doubt hoped he would be a good player, but no one could have imagined that he would score 1,280 goals in 1,352 games.

b Answer the questions about the text.

1 Where did Pelé begin playing football?

In the streets of his hometown.

2 What was his dream?

To become a professional football player and score a goal for Brazil in the World Cup.

3 What does "world renowned" mean?

World famous

4 How old was he when he started playing professionally?

15

5 What was Pelé's hometown?

Três Corações

c What are your dreams for the future? What do you hope to do in ten years?

What do you expect will happen in your life? Write a paragraph about your dreams.

In the future I want to do so many things. In my dreams I want to become a Civil Engineer. I will have to study more than ever. After that I want to get a well-paid job as an Engineer, doing all kind of projects to improve the infrastructure of different cities. I also want to create an organization for the poor people in my country. There are also other hops that I would like to do. I want to travel around the world. I have always been curious about other cultures and the differences between people in other countries. It would be amazing to travel the whole world. I can work hard to make my dreams come true.

2 Wishes and hopes

Grammar builder: expressing present wishes, future hopes wishes

Use:

To express desire for a present situation to be different, but to know that it is almost certainly not going to change.

Form:

subject + wish + past simple

I wish I had a big car.

You wish it wasn't raining.

He / she wishes he was rich.

Wish is followed by the past simple but in fact refers to a possible change in the present / future.

hopes

Use:

To express a desire for a future situation.

Form:

subject + hope + will + verb

I hope he will say "yes"!

subject + hope + can + verb

I hopeyou can come to my party.

subject + hope + present simple verb

I hopeyou get the job.

1 Grammar

a Complete the sentences. Write the correct forms of the verbs in brackets.

1 I wish I lived (live) in the country.

4 I wish I spoke (speak) German.

2 He wishes he could come (can come) to our house.

5 He hopes you feel (feel) better.

3 I hope they buy (buy) my house.

6 Jack wishes the weather were (be) better.

b Match the sentences with the wishes or hopes.

1 We work every weekend.

a) He hopes to learn Japanese.

2 I want to buy a car.

b) I hope I get a raise.

3 George is planning to go to Japan.

c) I hope you'll write soon.

4 I don't know how to cook.

d) I wish I knew how.

5 I miss you.

e) He hopes to get a good job.

6 Ali is going to study computer science.

f) We wish we didn't have to work so much.

c Make sentences with wish or hope.

It's raining. I don't have an umbrella.

I wish I had an umbrella.

1 It's nice weather today. I have to work.

I wish I didn't have to work

2 Tomorrow is our picnic and it's raining today.

I hope it doesn't rain tomorrow

3 My eyes are blue. I prefer brown eyes.

I wish I had brown eyes

4 You have a bad cold and your graduation is on Saturday.

I hope my cold is better by Saturday.

5 His car is at the garage. He wants to use it.

He wishes his car wasn't at the garage.

6 They want to buy some food. They don't have any money.

They wish they had some money

7 She can't speak English. She would like to.

She wishes she could speak English

d Write sentences about your own present situation, wishes and hopes.

Present situation

My eyes are brown.

My house is narrow.

My hair is yellow.

My car is blue.

Wish / hope

I wish they were blue.

I wish it were wide.

I wish it were brown.

I wish it were black.

2 Reading and writing

a Put the conversation in the correct order.

1 I hope you invite me over soon. Well, after you buy the heater.

I

2 It's too cold. I wish it were warmer.

F

3 That's a good idea.

H

4 What's wrong with it?

C

5 You don't look too happy.

A

6 I'm not. I hate my new apartment.

B

7 That's easy. Buy a heater.

G

8 Well firstly, it's too noisy. I wish there was less traffic.

D

9 You can't do anything about that. What other problems are there?

b Read this joke about wishes.

Albert, Bob and Chuck are on a desert island. Albert finds a magic lantern. He rubs it and a genie appears. "You have one wish each. What do you wish for?" the genie asked. Albert immediately responded, "I wish I were home with my family." And poof, he disappeared. Then Bob said, "I wish I were in Paris." Poof, he was gone, too. Chuck looked around and his friends were gone. He said, "I wish my friends Albert and Bob were here." And poof, Albert and George returned at the same time the genie disappeared.

c Have you ever heard a joke about three wishes? Write it here or invent one of your own.

The protagonist of the joke makes their first two wishes and finds that all is well. Often, the third wish is either misinterpreted, or intentionally granted in an awkwardly literal fashion, and cannot be reversed because it is the final wish, resulting in the punch line of the joke.

3 Stories of the imagination

Grammar builder: the second conditional

Use:

To talk about imaginary situations.

Form:

if + past simple + would + simple infinitive

If I had a car, I'd (would) drive you there. (but I don't have a car.)

Language assistant

The two clauses can be reversed with no change in meaning.
I'd drive you there if I had a car.

1 Grammar

 - b) He'd be really happy if he'd get the job.
- 5 a) If you would to come to my house, it would be very nice.
 - ☒ b) If you came to my house, it would be very nice.

c Complete the sentences about yourself.

- 1 I'd travel to the USA If I had the price of tickets
- 2 If I had more money, I'd buy a big house
- 3 If I had my own private plane, I'd travel to isolated island
- 4 I'd study more If I had another chance
- 5 I'd take my family to a cruise, if I had a yacht

d Complete the paragraph with the verbs in brackets.
They are present simple or second conditional.

George Pope lives (live) in New York City. He has (have) a stressful job as an international banker. He (1) lives (live) with his wife, Petra, and two children in a penthouse apartment in a noisy part of Manhattan. George's office is a long way from his apartment and he (2) spends (spend) a lot of time traveling to work. If they (3) lived (live) in the country, they'd have a very different life. George usually (4) drives (drive) to his bank in heavy traffic. If they (5) left (leave) New York, he (6) would sell (sell) the car and buy a bicycle. He (7) would work (work) from home and (8) would spend (spend) more time with his family. They (9) wouldn't live (not live) in an apartment but (10) would buy (buy) a big house with a garden.

e Answer the questions about George and Petra. Use a short answer.

If they lived in the country ...

Would they live in an apartment?

No, they wouldn't.

No, he wouldn't.

2 Would George spend more time with his family?

Yes, he would.

3 Would George drive to work?

No, he wouldn't.

4 Would he get a small car?

No, he wouldn't.

2 Writing

Complete the conversation.

Rinad: Leena, I need some advice.

Leena: Sure. What's your problem?

Rinad: I think my brother's got problems at work. But he's not telling me.

Leena: If I were you, I'd (1) ask him to tell me the problem.

Rinad: Yes, but if I did that, he'd probably (2) avoid telling me.

Leena: I'm sure he wouldn't. If (3) serious problems, he would talk to you.

I'm sure he'd tell you. You're his sister.

Rinad: That's the problem. If I weren't his sister, (4) he would tell me.

He doesn't want to worry me.
